James Berry.
Last Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride, H. D. Clark officiating, Mr. John James and Miss Leo Berry were united in marriage. The wedding was a very quiet one there being present only a few relatives and intimate friends. Mr. James is one of our most prosperous and highly esteemed citizens. A business man who by his correct business methods has endeared every one to him. No one stands higher as a true gentleman or enjoys the confidence of the people more than he. His bride is a very stylish and popular woman, possessed with that lovely disposition which fits her for an excellent wife. They have the best wishes of their most of friends.

Don't Forget.

Chenault.

David W. Chenault departed this life April 24th, after an illness of eighteen months. His funeral was preached Sunday morning at the Baptist church by Rev. Everett Gill, before a large congregation of relatives and friends and his remains were laid to rest in Macpherson Cemetery.

The subject of this sketch was a son of William Laudy and Virginia Chenault and was born in Madison county, April 12, 1835, and on March 1, 1842, with his parents came to this county. In 1862 his father died and he and his brother Frank took charge of the farm and managed it successfully until the close of the war in 1865 when he decided on farming as a business. He had been educated at the home schools and had prepared himself for the practice of law, but owing to delicate health abandoned it. Twenty years ago under the pastorate of Rev. J. Pike Powers during a protracted meeting conducted by Rev. Green Clay Smith he joined the Baptist church, for a time he had charge of the Bible Class in the Sunday School and for a long period of years was treasurer of the church. September 17, 1879, he was married to Miss Emma L. Reed and to them was born six children. His wife and five children survive him. Mr. Chenault was of a positive character, determined and resolute and due to this in a large measure was his success in life. When he began a work he carried it to completion, the word failure being unknown to his vocabulary. His family attachments were great, and though separated to his late from that dread unrelenting disease he was anxious to be spared to rear his family. In his church work, as in other duties he did his part cheerfully. To his family he was kind and affectionate and their wants was his pleasure.

For Sale.—A four-year-old 15 1/2 hand work mule, and a nice phenon mare.

G. G. TRIMBLE.

Willie, the little son of Mr. J. C. Enoch, while playing base-ball on last Saturday fell and broke his arm.

Lockridge.

D. S. Lockridge died on last Friday, the 24th inst., of general debility. His remains were taken to Cynthiana on Sunday and after a service at the grave by Rev. H. Buckner of Southern Presbyterian church, was buried in Battle Grove Cemetery. Mr. Lockridge was born in Bath County February 7, 1820, where he grew to manhood and wedded Miss Mary J. Sweeney. To them were born two daughters, the younger died in 1868, and his wife and other daughter, Mrs. Joseph Stephens survive him. In Mr. Lockridge's earlier days he was a farmer in Bath county, later he went to Kansas City where he resided for several years, but on account of the health of his wife he returned to Kentucky, and for a short period was a resident of Harrison county, but returned to his native county, and while a resident of this county he was for several years president of the Deposit Bank of Carlisle. He was one of the organizers of the Bath County Fair Association and was its president until he came to this city fifteen years ago. Here he first engaged in the milling business and later in the Sale and Livery Stable business. He was an active, successful man until the latter part of his life when he was in failing health. He was a man who made many friends. He was a member of the Southern Presbyterian church.

Whoa, There.

An old farmer the other day had just driven into town with his mules to sell a load of pumpkins, and stopped in front of the phonograph store. "What air them fellows doin' in there with spouts in their ears?" he asked.

"Those are talking machines" and answered a man in the doorway.

The farmer was a little incredulous, but he finally left his mules and went into the store. The tubes were placed in his ears, he dropped a nickel in the slot, and a brass band began to play. "Whoo, there," shouted the music, darting out of the store, "them mules of mine won't stand no brass band." —N. Y. Visitor.

West Lexington Presbytery Adjourned.

West Lexington Presbytery, which convened in this city on Tuesday last, completed its business and adjourned on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting proved to be mutually delightful to our people and the Presbytery. Its sessions were open and greatly enjoyed by all who had the good fortune to attend. The preaching services were of the highest order and were both edifying and entertaining. The sermon on Sanctification, a doctrine upon which there is some diversity of opinion, even among the clergy as well as individual Christians, was very ably presented by Rev. J. J. Childs, as held by the Presbyterian church. It was listened to by a crowded audience with eager and rapid attention. Rev. Dr. Beatty, that illustrious man and professor of Systematic Theology in the new Theological Seminary, of Louisville, delivered a sermon on the doctrine of Justification by Faith. It is needless for us to say that it was perfectly grand. Before adjourning the Presbytery passed resolutions of thanks for the elegant and hospitable manner in which they had been entertained by the good people of our city.

Coleman O. Groves.

Our fellow citizen, Coleman O. Groves, stood his examination before the Presbytery of the Southern Presbyterian church in a most successful and flattering manner on last Wednesday. His trial sermon was one of great excellence and was delivered in a style both attractive and gratifying to his friends here and to his presbytery. He was licensed to preach, and has been invited to fill the pulpit of the Maxwell street Presbyterian church, of Lexington, Ky., during the absence of Dr. McElroy, who will visit Europe.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Southern Presbyterian church have changed the hour of meeting from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 6:30. An invitation is extended to all the young people to attend these meetings.

Jefferson C. Bryant, of Plum, Ky., was married Thursday morning to Miss Katie Cain, of Little Rock, at the residence of Father Burke, in Paris. The groom is a wealthy bachelor of 70 years, and the bride is a handsome young lady of 25 summers. Six years ago Mr. Bryant was sued for $25,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage by Miss Lottie Sherman Case, of this county. The jury awarded the plaintiff $4,000 damages, and other expenses of the extended litigation, heavy witness fees, etc., cost the defendant about $4,000 more.

CAME TO KILL

Tragedy Opens Alabama's Democratic Convention.

Percy Wood Killed and His Brother Fatally Wounded.

SHOT BY ROBERT KENNEDY.

Montgomery, Ala., April 21.—A sensational tragedy was enacted at the Louisville and Nashville depot this morning at 7:30 o'clock, when Robert Kennedy, of Selma, Sheriff of Dallas County, shot and killed Percy Wood and fatally wounded his brother, Mards Wood. The tragedy was witnessed by several hundred people.

Kennedy was evidently expecting the arrival of the Wood brothers, as he was at the depot armed with a shot gun, loaded with buck-shot. When the Woods saw Kennedy they endeavored to seek places of safety.

Kennedy fired, the charge entering Percy Wood's back, causing his death later. When Kennedy began firing Mards Wood drew his pistol and fired five times at Kennedy, but his aim was bad. Kennedy reloaded his shotgun twice and one of his charges entered Wood's left shoulder and arm, breaking the bones of each.

Mards is dying to-night. The trouble is said to have been caused by a quarrel that had existed between Mards Wood and Kennedy's wife. Wood had kept a woman from Selma, feeling trouble, but came here to attend a meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee, of which he was a member. It is said Kennedy came to Montgomery for the purpose of killing Mards Wood.

Mards Wood was a well known politician and had been for twenty years. Two years ago he was the nominee of the Democratic party in the Fourth District for Congress, but withdrew before the election and Gaston Robbins, recently unseated took his place.

The Queerest Town.

The most remarkable city in the world is Fish City, Mich. In a way it suggests the tented towns of the Arabs of the desert. It may be folded and carried away in a night. It is not built on land, nor yet is it a city of boats. It has no existence in summer, yet in winter it is a teeming thriving place. The ice of Saginaw Bay is the town site. The same sheltered cove is used every season. As soon as the bay is frozen over the bay springs into existence. The houses are built of rough pine boards, well chinked and protected from the winter blasts. The population varies from year to year. In 1893-4 it was 5,000, and in 1894-5 it sprang up to 8,000. This year there are 6,000 souls are sheltered in the pine cabins of Fish City, every one of which is engaged in the catching, cleaning and packing of late trout for the market. A mayor is elected for the year, who has the support of the town council. There is a fire engine, a Roman Catholic chapel and the necessary stores and liquor shops for the accommodation, of a busy population.

Some Things to Learn.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A well-told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick room. Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself. Learn to hide your pains and sorrows under a pleasant smile. No matter how bad whether you have the colic, headache or rheumatism. Don't cry. Tears do well enough in novels, but they are out of place in real life. Learn to meet your friends with a smile. The good-humored man or woman is always welcome. But the dyspeptic or hypochondriac is not wanted anywhere and is a nuisance as well.

A Rabbit Drive.

California held the first rabbit drive of the season on March 21, on which occasion between 20,000 and 30,000 rabbits were killed. The slaughter of Jack rabbits on the plains of the San Joaquin valley has become a species of sports that is looked forward to with pleasure and participated in by the greater part of the inhabitants within reach of the proposed drive.

Men, women and children all take part and come from miles around, bringing their meals and preparing for a day's sport. Two lines of fence are constructed of woven wire five feet in height and in the shape of a V, the wings being from two to three miles in length. At the point of junction a large corral or cul-de-sac is built, which completes the trap and forms the slaughter pen. All being in readiness the people taking part in the drive from a circle with a radius of six to eight miles and with dogs, sticks and other means drive the frightened animals toward the inclosure, closing up steadily until the line of the fence is reached. Once within this area the rabbits follow the close fence until they enter the corral and when all are in this closed and the captive animals are killed by the hunters. These drives take place in most of the counties of the San Joaquin valley each year and the pests are destroyed by hundreds of thousands but in spite of all there are enough left for a good drive the next spring.

The jack rabbit is one of the worst pests the California farmer has to contend with, sharing in the destructive work of the squirrel and gopher. It has an especial fondness for young grapevines and the tender bark of trees and in some seasons has made orchard and vineyard work unprofitable or impossible. The immense raisin vineyards of the San Joaquin became a favorite haunt for them and they lived here by the thousands. It was discovered some years since that nothing but concerted action would ever keep them in check and the rabbit drive was instituted.

DO NOT CURTAIN THE CROP

And Raise a Better Quality of Tobacco.

A New York Journal's Advice to Growers of Burley.

TOO MUCH CHEAP TOBACCO.

The tobacco leaf, a leading tobacco Journal of New York says: "As the season approaches for the planting of this year's Burley crop, there are a great many facts in connection with it that ought to be taken into consideration by the vast army of growers throughout the Burley districts. Unless they give heed to advice and suggestions established by facts and figures, they will only continue present conditions and probably make them worse by growing another large and inferior crop of tobacco. "It is well known that the lands on which Burley has been raised have deteriorated by reason of the successive crops grown year after year. The farmer's attempt to grow such a large acreage has only resulted in crops of inferior quality, especially in the last three or four years. The general depression in business throughout the country and the idleness of the wage earners has created a demand for a cheaper grade of chewing and smoking tobacco, and the crop, being principally of low and inferior grades, has supplied in a larger measure this demand. But the demand has not been large enough in proportion, to consume the vast quantities raised, hence the stocks have accumulated in the open markets of the United States, and on March 1, 1896, the stocks of leaf in this country were 106,000 hds., as against 85,500 hds., for the same time last year, showing an increase of 21,000 hds. "A careful study of the total offerings of burley, both in Cincinnati and Louisville, for this year to date will show an average of less than five cents and the average of the new (1895) crop alone in the two markets for the same time will show considerably less. After deducting the expenses and charges of preparing for market and selling this tobacco, it is well known that it would not pay to grow it at these figures, and the farmer is simply losing money. The recent failure of one of the most prominent growers in the bluegrass country in itself sufficient to demonstrate this fact. "The starting of the new warehouse in Lexington, Ky., or a new warehouse anywhere is not going to improve matters one iota. The grower is the most important factor in this whole situation, and he alone can change the conditions and produce a better state of affairs. It is simply reduced to this that he must plant less tobacco; and when he does this, let him take every precaution to improve the quality of the reduced acreage. With the growing of a superior crop of tobacco this year, and with the improved condition of business in the country which will probably soon develop, he may change the existing state of affairs. "It is a well-known fact that consumers of tobacco are getting a little tired of cheap plug, and in the improvement in business and better wages for the laborers, they will naturally want a better chew. If a few crops of tobacco were raised this year, it would certainly bring better prices than an inferior one; and great manufacturers who desire to put higher grades of chewing on the market will be able to do so. With the desire for a change among chewers, the conditions that now prevail would be entirely changed and better prices at once established for leaf. This would develop if the crop were of good quality. "The foundations for better commercial and financial conditions in the country that are now developing would prepare the demand for just such a crop of tobacco if the farmers would grow it, and they would reap the benefit of intelligent efforts in this line. But they cannot proceed on the presumption that tobacco is going to get higher under the existing condition of things unless they are willing to help change matters by planting less tobacco, by giving it greater care and attention and doing everything in their power to grow a crop of better quality. "It will simply be folly to grow au-other crop like that of last year, as with the present large stocks in the warehouses and that which is ready to come to market, it is believed that another crop of like proportion and equally poor quality would not net the grower more than 25 cents per cent, the cost of production."

California held the first rabbit drive of the season on March 21, on which occasion between 20,000 and 30,000 rabbits were killed. The slaughter of Jack rabbits on the plains of the San Joaquin valley has become a species of sports that is looked forward to with pleasure and participated in by the greater part of the inhabitants within reach of the proposed drive.

Men, women and children all take part and come from miles around, bringing their meals and preparing for a day's sport. Two lines of fence are constructed of woven wire five feet in height and in the shape of a V, the wings being from two to three miles in length. At the point of junction a large corral or cul-de-sac is built, which completes the trap and forms the slaughter pen. All being in readiness the people taking part in the drive from a circle with a radius of six to eight miles and with dogs, sticks and other means drive the frightened animals toward the inclosure, closing up steadily until the line of the fence is reached. Once within this area the rabbits follow the close fence until they enter the corral and when all are in this closed and the captive animals are killed by the hunters. These drives take place in most of the counties of the San Joaquin valley each year and the pests are destroyed by hundreds of thousands but in spite of all there are enough left for a good drive the next spring.

The jack rabbit is one of the worst pests the California farmer has to contend with, sharing in the destructive work of the squirrel and gopher. It has an especial fondness for young grapevines and the tender bark of trees and in some seasons has made orchard and vineyard work unprofitable or impossible. The immense raisin vineyards of the San Joaquin became a favorite haunt for them and they lived here by the thousands. It was discovered some years since that nothing but concerted action would ever keep them in check and the rabbit drive was instituted.

DO NOT CURTAIN THE CROP

And Raise a Better Quality of Tobacco.

A New York Journal's Advice to Growers of Burley.

TOO MUCH CHEAP TOBACCO.

The tobacco leaf, a leading tobacco Journal of New York says: "As the season approaches for the planting of this year's Burley crop, there are a great many facts in connection with it that ought to be taken into consideration by the vast army of growers throughout the Burley districts. Unless they give heed to advice and suggestions established by facts and figures, they will only continue present conditions and probably make them worse by growing another large and inferior crop of tobacco. "It is well known that the lands on which Burley has been raised have deteriorated by reason of the successive crops grown year after year. The farmer's attempt to grow such a large acreage has only resulted in crops of inferior quality, especially in the last three or four years. The general depression in business throughout the country and the idleness of the wage earners has created a demand for a cheaper grade of chewing and smoking tobacco, and the crop, being principally of low and inferior grades, has supplied in a larger measure this demand. But the demand has not been large enough in proportion, to consume the vast quantities raised, hence the stocks have accumulated in the open markets of the United States, and on March 1, 1896, the stocks of leaf in this country were 106,000 hds., as against 85,500 hds., for the same time last year, showing an increase of 21,000 hds. "A careful study of the total offerings of burley, both in Cincinnati and Louisville, for this year to date will show an average of less than five cents and the average of the new (1895) crop alone in the two markets for the same time will show considerably less. After deducting the expenses and charges of preparing for market and selling this tobacco, it is well known that it would not pay to grow it at these figures, and the farmer is simply losing money. The recent failure of one of the most prominent growers in the bluegrass country in itself sufficient to demonstrate this fact. Do recognize your summer friends when you see them behind the counter at Macy's.
Do remember that it takes more than nineteen gowns and four admirers to make a belle.
Do ask yourself occasionally if you have shown any glimmerings of intelligence during the day.
Do beware of the married man who sees in you all that is lacking in his life and tells you so.
Do try to profit by the "horrible examples" of life's failures to be seen at all large summer resorts.
Do refrain from telling all the women on the hotel veranda just how Mr. Van Vlietson proposed to you.
Do resist the temptation to capture every man you see. There are other girls with rights and aspirations.
Do remember that decollete gowns do not go well with sunburned faces.
Do try to look and feel sympathetic when your dearest enemy drops the mayonnaise dressing on her best gown.
Do realize that your knowledge of human nature, vast as it is, cannot be relied upon to carry you through every crisis.
Do let your men friends tell you all their dreams and aspirations. It won't hurt you and it will be an infinite comfort to them.
Do try to realize that the affection and respect of one, honest manly man are worth more than all the science taken during a summer campaign—New York World.

Stylish Pique Gowns.

Pique in dead white, but with its cords so thick that it makes it seem like cloth, is shown in white, wood, stem-green, Maroon and navy blue as well as plaid designs somewhat larger than shepherd's plaid, but with hair lines so crossing each other that an extremely fine plaid is achieved. Scarlet and white, blue and white, black, white, stem-green and white, and purple and white are the contrasts offered in this plaid. The pique dresses are simplicity itself, and as much care is taken to make them fit well as if they were of cloth. A typical one shows the stem-green and white plaid. The skirt has the usual flare, and to increase it there are two rows of skirts bounding around the lower edge. The jacket collar is somewhat longer than those worn during the winter, and flares away from the front to show a waistcoat of stem-green cloth fastened with bullet pearl buttons.

The broad revers on the coat are of the pique, and the high stock is of stem-green taffeta ribbon with a large bow in the back. The full sleeves shape into the arms, and each has three rows of bullet buttons on the upper side. With this is worn a sailor hat of white straw having about it a bow of stem-green ribbon, while five stiff stalks of mignonette stand up on the left side. The gloves are of black kid closing with four large buttons. Isabelle A. Mallon in May Ladies' Home Journal.

STOCK NOTES

Water your horses before feeding.
Never breed to an animal with a bad disposition.
A half-bred is usually better than no blood at all.

One service is all that is necessary to receive a good litter of pigs.
Plenty of fresh air, with exercise, is necessary for the health of sheep.

Contagious diseases are usually found on the farms of the careless farmers first.

It is not a question of size, but of digestion and the quality, that makes a horse an easy keeper.

For strength in any kind of a horse, take one with a short, straight back and short couple.

It is quite an item to breed the cows so as to have them all farrow at as nearly the same time as possible.

The evenness and regularity of feeding marks the degree of success reached in finishing a lot of hogs for market.

As an argument in favor of good treatment, it may be said that disease rarely starts in herds that have good treatment.

Never try to increase coarseness in any herd by using a coarse boar. The best plan is to get rid of the sows that are too fine.

No bad-tempered sire should ever be used to perpetuate his kind. Remember that docility is a desirable quality to develop.

When the hogs have the run of a good pasture it will be found easier to maintain a steady growth than under any other conditions.

One decided difference between good and bad horses is that it is a trouble to keep good horses, and it is a trouble to get rid of poor ones.
The normal condition of animals is more or less affected by changes of temperature, and results from the same ration are consequently varied.

In selecting breeding stock, select those from dams which are regular breeders in preference to those from a transient or uncertain breeder.

Upon the first six months of a colt's life largely depends the future value and usefulness of the horse; therefore take good care of the colts.

Too early breeding stunts the growth and prevents a proper development of the frame, and in a measure lessens the value of the offspring.

If you want a strong, healthy horse, feed him regularly while he is a colt, and don't let him stop growing for want of a little feed and attention.

In breeding, great care should be taken to see that the same defect does not exist in both sire and dam, as it will render the offspring more liable to the same defect.

Don't say whoa unless you mean it. Teach your horse to stop at the word. It may check him if he lines back, and save a runaway and smash-up.

There is always an advantage in having as much of the power as possible concentrated in a single animal that is to be employed in keeping the farm machinery in motion.

Too much stress cannot be placed upon the importance of regularity in feeding all domestic animals. A horse will keep in better condition upon a smaller amount of feed if that is given at regular intervals.

It is an easy matter to keep a horse in good flesh if properly taken care of at all times, but the trouble with most farmers is that their horses are worked hard all the week and on Saturday night are turned to pasture to stay there until Monday morning.

At Frank's house they had quince jam for supper; but Frankie had been ill, so his mother said to him: "Frank, you cannot have any jam; it will make you sick, and then you might die." Frank took this like a little man, until he saw his mother help herself to jam the second time. Then he pushed his plate slowly toward the forbidden dish, and said with deliberation: "Well, if you are going to die, I might as well die, too. Gimme some of it."

HOW TO LEARN TO TALK

Learn to listen well, and very soon you will find yourself speaking the word in season and surprising your self as well as others by the quickness with which your thoughts are expressed.

Read the works of great writers; think them over, and conclude in what way you differ from them.

The woman who talks well must needs have opinions—decided ones—but she must have them well in hand, as nothing is so disagreeable as an aggressive talker.

Say what you have to say pleasantly and sweetly; remember always that the best thing in life—dear, sweet love—has often been won by that delightful thing "a low voice."

Be not to critical remember; that every blow given another woman is a boomerang which is bound to return and hit you with double force.

Take this into consideration: It is never worth while to make a malicious remark, no matter how clever it may be, for those who may laugh at it at the time will lay it up against you unconsciously and retain a vague sort of impression in their minds that you are not of the sweetest and gentlest nature.

Marvelous Result

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundrum, of Dimondale, Michigan we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was down with pneumonia, succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at W. S. Lloyd's Drugstore. Regular size 50c, and 1.00.

The Devil's Four Servants.

The devil has a great many servants. They are all busy and in all places. Some are vile-looking that one instantly turns away from them in disgust; but some are so sociable, insinuating and plausible that they almost deceive at times the very elect. Among the latter class are to be found the devil's four chief servants. Here are their names:

"There's No Danger."
"Only this Once."
"Everybody Does So."
"By and by."

All four are cheats and liars. They mean to cheat you out of happiness, and they will do it if you listen to them.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fever. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malaria poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

Shortest Route to Louisville.

The distance from Lexington to Louisville has been greatly shortened by the Shelbyville "cut-off," just completed. C. & O. trains leaving Mt. Sterling at 7:05 a. m. and 4:50 p. m. daily, reach Louisville at 11 a. m. and 3:50 p. m. (2 hours and 45 minutes). The C. & O. now has the shortest line between Mt. Sterling and Louisville, is the only line with double daily limited vestibuled train service. Frankfort and Shelbyville are the only points at which these trains stop.

Nature of Bloodhounds.

One who knows says: There is a mistaken impression in regard to the nature of the bloodhound. Most people imagine this species of canine to be very ferocious, when, on the contrary, the dogs are as docile as those of any other breed known. I have raised a great many of the very finest strains of bloodhounds, and have always found them as domestic and gentle as a dog should be. While they are very keen of scent, nowhere in their history have they made a record for ferocity.

Introducing American Corn.

The missionary work in the interest of American corn is still going on in Europe, though little is heard of it here. The aim is not to introduce corn as human food alone but to increase its use in the manufacture of spirits, starch, etc. More is now being used in industries than ever before, and some liberal shipments have recently been made to old-world distilleries. The increase in the use of corn as feed, however, is not sufficient to attract attention in the market. The European working classes are slow to adopt such a radical change in diet. The fact that corn foods must be eaten warm is also against them, as fuel is scarce and dear. Wheat and rye flour have become so cheap that there is comparatively little advantage in using corn when the fuel is considered. Notwithstanding all this there is some progress in its use, and the campaign of education goes on.

Husbands to Burn.

The English actors who come over here are intensely English when they first arrive, but they soon show their appreciation of American colloquialisms by appropriating them. A gentleman of this city relates that some time ago, in the New York Club, he met Fred Wright, Jr., the comedian. Some one was talking about a woman who had just married her third husband.

"By the way," the gentleman asked, "where is her first husband buried?"

"He was cremated," was the answer.

"And the second?"

"Also cremated."

"By Jove," observed little Mr. Wright, "that woman has husbands to burn."—St. Louis Republic.

Vicious Rabbits.

There is no statement of the rabbit plague in Australia. In New South Wales alone over 7,000,000 acres of land have been abandoned because of the impossibility of keeping down these rapidly increasing pests. This colony has spent over $5,000,000 in waging war against the rabbit, and in one year paid for 27,000,000 rabbit skins. Fifteen thousand miles of wire netting have been erected, and thus far nothing else have been invented that seems to do any good. Poison, wholesale slaughter and inoculation with disease germs have all been unable to check the increase.

Steel vs. Cast Iron.

Steel has superseded iron in all structural work where the greatest strength and durability are required. The old-fashioned cast-iron stove has made way for the

which is made of cold-rolled steel (the strongest steel) and malleable iron (iron that by an expensive process, is made unbreakable), and the whole construction is riveted by hand (the honest way).

The Majestic is built on honor to last the user a lifetime—a long lifetime.

THE DEMOCRATIC CENTENNIAL.

The Democratic party dropped the Republican hypochondriac name in 1892, when it held its first national convention, and has since been known by the one name. In the same year the National Republican party, which later became the Whig party, came into existence as a national organization.

In the Democratic National Convention of 1892 there were 910 delegates, and under the two thirds rule 604 votes were necessary to a choice. Cleveland received 617 votes on the first ballot. The addition of Utah to the list of States will add four delegates this year, making a total of 914, and 610 will be necessary to a choice if the two-thirds rule is maintained.

Jefferson first applied the name of Republican party to the organization founded by him in a letter to President Washington, in which he classified under that name all those who opposed a general government as well as those who favored a republican form of government rather than a monarchical one, or one which they believed tended toward a monarchy.

The construction of the Constitution later became the line of demarcation between the two great political parties and has remained so to this day. The Democratic party has always stood for more or less strict construction of the Constitution, liberal power for the states and limited power for the general Government. The Federalists, and later the Republican, party stood for liberal construction.

During the 100 years of its existence the Democratic party has been at one time or another on both sides of nearly all great national issues. The first protective tariff, that of 1816, known as the Calhoun tariff, was a Democratic measure. From Jackson's administration to the present the party has in theory, if not in practice, opposed protective tariff, and in 1892 said in its platform that such a tariff was unconstitutional.

This is the centennial year of the Democratic party. The party came into existence as a national organization in 1796. It was founded by Thomas Jefferson, who was the candidate of the party for president in that year. Jefferson called it the Republican party, but its first national campaign the organization was called the Democratic-Republican party by the masses. The Tammany Society which was in existence at that time, has ever since retained the name of Democratic-Republican organization.

There was only one regular organized political party prior to 1896; that was the Federalist party. All those who opposed its policy were classed as anti-Federalists, and they had no organization and no platform. The Democratic party, as it is now called, was the outcome of differences on financial questions in Washington's Cabinet, beginning in 1791. Jefferson opposed Hamilton's plan for the establishment of the United States Bank. He was a strict constructionist and held that the Government had no constitutional power to establish a bank.

The total number of votes in the Republican National Convention of 1892 was 906. Since then Utah has been admitted to Statehood, adding four votes, making a total of 910. In the call for the convention this year Chairman Carter of the National Committee directed all Territories seeking Statehood to elect four delegates at-large, the position of their admission to be decided by the convention. If Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma each elect four delegates-at-large, and they are all admitted, the total number of votes in the Louisville convention will be 922.

Coffax, Wash. April 17, 1894.—Dr. C. W. Harris, Editor Mt. Sterling, Ky. ADVOCATE.—Dear Sir: Your very kind notice of myself did me a "power of good" as we used to say down in "Kaintucki," but I doct. there are two mistakes that I must correct. Speaking of me you say "who lived here some years ago." When I read that it brought my heart up into my mouth, and with poor old Rip Van Winkle, I said, "alas are we so soon forgot?" "Lived" there "some years ago." Goodness man! you never left Kentucky did you? Where else can a man live? Why there has not been a day since I took the train for Fulton, meandered off into the swamps, and mairials of Southeast Missouri, away to the Golden Gate, the land of my boyhood's dreams, of seas, liars and climate, homing over the green waves of the Pacific, or over the fertile valleys and pine-clad mountains of Washington that I have not lived in Kentucky. Days, months and years have flown but I am still there.

As Dr. Hammond says, "Life is correspondence with environment," then indeed have I and am living in Kentucky all these days. Her verdant slopes and lovely vales are imprinted on my brain in the indelible and undying memories of youth. Was it not there that I loved the beautiful girls individually and collectively? Their radiant beauty and bewitching loveliness is like a cluster of richest gems with rays serene. They can never be fully appreciated until contrasted with nature's weaker efforts in other States.

Day after day I pass along the old familiar scenes of historic Mt. Sterling, the gem of the bluegrass, the pride of the mountains, and feel the atmosphere of that wonderful undefinable something, "Kentucky hospitality."

Sunday after Sunday I still attend the old church. How familiar every pew—how loved is every face. There sits Uncle Billy Mitchell on the front bench. How the region around that spot glows with his warm and genial life! And at the other end of the front bench sits Capt. Henry Jones, whose Godly life shades a halo over the old town. Over in the corner there, near Uncle Billy, sits Judge B. J. Peters erect as an Indian. Pure, warm, earnest and true, a model of the old Kentucky gentleman now fast passing away. Behind Capt. Jones sits Billy Little and General Dick Williams—high-spirited, cordial, genial. Dick. Across the side there is Judge Dick Reid, his kindly blue eyes beaming his gentle heart, his long chin heard lending a peculiar dignity to his noble face. And I am sitting with Miss Fannie Jones in the center of the church, five seats back, while she blends an excellent soprano with all the poor tenor there is in me. And do you remember what a charming girl she was? Miss Mattie Hazelrigg (Stonesman) is pouring out her soul in matchless melody while Mesdames Jo Wells and Georgia Turner—two of God's best efforts at woman making—help swell the concord of sweet sounds; and near by is Ella Myles. The old "quartet," alas, how divided now. Just behind me to the left sits the center pillar of the church—faithful, earnest, zealous, musical Jimmie Hazelrigg, for more than a quarter of a century making a pure, sweet melody, as unmatched as the old town, but not as sweet as the purity and melody of his own life. Here sits the whole-souled George Hazelrigg (the father of Judge Jim) who has been singing for many years in the New Jerusalem choir. Just in front of me sits Will and Fannie Stoffer and behind me Dr. and Mrs. Hannah. Can it be that I the faintest of them all am left to note the empty pews? I look around and there sits faithful John Owsen and Geo. Miller and wife, and Henry Blingo and wife, and Uncle Moore Johnson, and faithful Dick Johnson, and Will Prewitt, and the queen of infant class teachers Mrs. Lou Harris, and Deacon C. W. Harris, and Henry Jones, noble son of a noble sire. As Esther has it, "Do I wake or am I dreaming?" Can it be that I am not living in old Kentucky? Am I but a shade wandering among the other shades of the shadow land, where the unseen in visible and dress are real? Dear old Brother Munnell purified by suffering and still strong in the Master's cause, and Brother Tibbs, than whom no one ever told the story of God's love in sweeter strains, and Judge Cassidy and wife, and Mrs. Caik, and Mrs. Chinn, and Mrs. Hanson; and the younger girls—Lucy and Cora Cassidy, Rebecca Wilson, Carrie Mitchell, Mamie Miller, Keturah Cluke and Addie Jones. Verily, these were my girls; all these are familiar faces, they are part of my life. No, no, Doctor, you are wrong I am still living in Kentucky.

Nowhere are the hills so green, the dowers so fragrant, the fruitage so perfect, the climate so genial, the girls so bewitchingly lovely and the woman so grandly beautiful, or the men so brave and generous and so ready to about a fellow's liver out, as in dear old Kentucky. Such horses, such cattle, such warmth of hospitality, such beauty, alone belong to Kentucky. I may have been a little while out of Kentucky, but I never can get Kentucky out of me.

Like our own florid poet of the Potomac, Col. John Joyce, I live constantly in the memories of Kentucky joys and sorrows. And I remember, what poet shall ever do, thy virtues justice? Where had a universal philanthropist and fireman like Bob Smith, or such a perpetual sacrifice on the altar of his life as Col. Dick Wood, or a poet, humorist, machine agent as Phil Reese, or a tailor, wit and elocutionist like Harry Campbell, or such a universal encyclopedia of useful things and fishing as Dr. Van Antwerp; and his daughter John S. Williams and Congressmen Harry Daniels and Thos. Turner, and Judge of the highest court, B. J. Peters, W. H. Holt, James H. Richard, Van B. Young and Richard Zeld; and then the memory of that matchless lawyer christian gentleman, Dr. A. Apperson, Jr.—what fragrance there is in that memory to me. Truly, this is glory enough. But this day Mattie Reese's glorious dinners and the hosts of others whose kind is indigence to Kentucky alone. And I feel as if I had lived my life again in the rapturous smiles of old Kentucky home.

No, I am still living in Kentucky. I shall always live there. In spite of my falling into the mire of Republicanism or the worse fate of gold-bugism and bank domination—I may say disassociation with truth—all with all my faults I love these still.

But say, Doctor, how it saddens my heart as I look over the roll taken from memory's fading record, and see how many of the dear old friends are gone to the silent majority, asleep in the bosom of that wondrous fertile soil, the mother of so much of all that is noble and good in church and State. Indeed this true "They are gathering home from every land One by one by one." Their feet are now treading the golden strand "Yes, one by one."

The other error will not take as long to correct. I am not in the "ministry," that is I have not the label "preacher" pinned to my back, nor have holy hands been laid upon me, setting me apart for the work of the ministry. I work six days in the week as opportunity offers. Just now I am deputy auditor of this county. When I left Kentucky I found myself associated with poor, weak, disorganized churches at Dexter, Mo., Fulton, Ky., at this place and at Pullman, Wash. I helped to organize the church at all these places. I have been compelled to do the work of an elder most of the time or it would have gone undone. At present I talk every Sunday morning and generally every Sunday morning. Last summer I frequently went to Pullman, sixteen miles, Sunday morning, conducted the morning service and got back to Coffax to talk there at night, all this without charge at my own expense. My long course of instruction at the Mt. Sterling Christian College under Prof. Munnell, Prof. McChesney, Prof. Tibbs, Prof. Trickett and Waiden and Surber having given me some little preparation for the work. But after all it is only the work of an apprentice. No church can grow and prosper without the aid of a pastor, zealous, earnest, constant and able. If you had seen a former member of the Pacific Christian you would have a very complimentary notice of my work by R. C. Dunlap, State Evangelist, while at the same time you would have known that I had not entered the ministry. Would that I were worthy and able to do so.

But I am not sure that monetary reward is the most needed gospel of the present, and I am sure a careful study of the question will place you squarely on the Bimetallic standard. I will submit international agreement, and all the other currency to be Legal tender.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. A violent in respect to accomplish more than his health permits, as much as the man who attends to business all the time. If his brain is heavy, and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. It has considered sickness by most people, but it is just the same. It is a serious sickness, because it weakens the system, and it is the health of mankind. Symptoms of it are salteriness, indigestion, poor appetite, and taste in the mouth, diarrhoea, biliousness, and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are perfectly simple—perfectly safe. They are not at all violent in their action, and they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they destroy the system all out of order. The great advantage of the Pleasant Pellets is that they cure permanently. You don't have to keep on taking them. You don't acquire a "pellet habit." Take them regularly for a week, and you are cured permanently. After that take them only when you feel yourself suffering from indigestion. There are many medicines offered for the same purpose, but which druggists make a bigger profit. For this reason, some druggists would rather sell the other things. If your own health is of more importance to you than the druggist's profit, you will insist on having what you ask for.

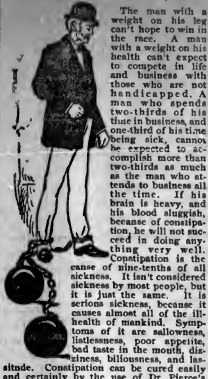

Tenders, greenbacks in sufficient quantities to do the business, and the absolute abolition of the National Banking system. Sincerely and Fraternally yours, D. B. GARRISON.

ARIZONA'S MOUNTAIN PUZZLE.

Is It a Hole Through an Inaccessible Peak, or Only a Natural Mirror.

For the last half century the American residents of Tucson, Arizona, have been trying to solve a mystery in the shape of what appears to be a hole through a mountain peak in plain sight from the town. In the rarified air it looks to be only a short distance away, when in reality it is at least forty miles. The earliest residents noticed the phenomenon, and the only difficulty that lay in the way of finding out just what it was, was the fact that it was inaccessible, and when they came anywhere near the spot the hole disappeared from sight. In fact, it can only be seen from within a few miles of Tucson, and this has led many people to believe that it is not a hole at all.

By the aid of a good marine telescope the mountain can be brought to within a few miles, but not near enough to tell the exact nature of the rock formation. An astronomical telescope can not be focused on it, as the mountain is too near. As a first step through the glass would lead one to believe that there was no mystery about it. The hole appears as plain as possible, but several days' study of the spot will develop the fact that the "hole" does not always look the same. Many days when the sky is dark behind the mountain the hole will appear a brilliant white, like a snowdrift, and on days when the sky is blue it will often look so dark as to be almost invisible. These facts have led many to think that it is an immense piece of mica lying with its polished surface toward the sky and reflecting the cloud formations of another part of the horizon instead of being the light seen through the hole. Viewed with the naked eye the hole simply appears as a white spot, but the telescope reveals pine trees and other details, although very indistinctly.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are perfectly simple—perfectly safe. They are not at all violent in their action, and they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they destroy the system all out of order. The great advantage of the Pleasant Pellets is that they cure permanently. You don't have to keep on taking them. You don't acquire a "pellet habit." Take them regularly for a week, and you are cured permanently. After that take them only when you feel yourself suffering from indigestion. There are many medicines offered for the same purpose, but which druggists make a bigger profit. For this reason, some druggists would rather sell the other things. If your own health is of more importance to you than the druggist's profit, you will insist on having what you ask for.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. A violent in respect to accomplish more than his health permits, as much as the man who attends to business all the time. If his brain is heavy, and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. It has considered sickness by most people, but it is just the same. It is a serious sickness, because it weakens the system, and it is the health of mankind. Symptoms of it are salteriness, indigestion, poor appetite, and taste in the mouth, diarrhoea, biliousness, and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are perfectly simple—perfectly safe. They are not at all violent in their action, and they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they destroy the system all out of order. Rain is badly needed in this country. Some of the oldest farmers say this is the driest time they have seen for years. It is worse than local opinion.

Mrs. James Stone died at her home in Owingsville on last Tuesday. She was an excellent woman, and was a sister of R. M. Burbridge of this city.

The Distillers' Stake at Lexington yesterday was won by Prince Lask Semper Ego, L. B. Ringold's horse, second. The time, 1:46 1/2, was very fast. The first mile was run in 1:40.

Jerry Ryan, who lives in this city near the line of the C. & O. railroad, discovered in a well which had been dug about 25 years ago and abandoned on account of a peculiar smell of the water, that it was two-thirds full of water, as he supposed, but upon examination found that one-half of it was a superior grade of kerosene. Mr. Ryan, in order to satisfy himself that there was an oil vein in his well, had it cleaned and as it fits up the oil is again perceptible.

The K. W. C. base-ball team, of Winchester, seem to be "on their stride." Last Saturday at that place they won an easy victory from the State College "cyclones" by a score of 23 to 7. The K. W. C.'s did some hard batting, making 7 three-baggers, 5 two-baggers, 16 singles and 1 home-run. Nugent, of the K. W. C.'s, wielded the willow for a home-run, 2 three-baggers and 2 singles, besides doing some pretty nice field work. Davis was in excellent form and caught an errorless game, and at needed points sent out effective hits. Wood, Davis' "running mate," had his thumb banged up and did not pitch.

LOUISVILLE RACES.

Greatest Spring Meeting Ever Held in Kentucky Beginning May 6.

Only One Fare From Here For the Round Trip.

This Includes Admission to the Grand Stand.

Beginning on Derby Day, May 6, one of the greatest race meetings ever held in Kentucky will be given at the famous Louisville race course. Ten stakes, including the Kentucky Derby, worth $6,000, will be run during the twelve days. All the crack horses of the country are engaged in these stakes, including Ben Brush, Prince Lick, Hamro, First Mate, Semper Ego, Nimrod, Ben Elder, Lady Inez, Farraday, Ida Pickwick, Rudolph, and over a hundred others. Over 800 horses are now quartered at Churchill Downs, insuring large fields and exciting contests. There will be five or more races each day, with liberal added money.

All the railroads have put on cheap excursion rates, the round trip from Mt. Sterling being only one fare. This also includes admission to the grand stand, each railroad ticket having a coupon attached which can be exchanged for a badge at the gate. This is the cheapest rate ever offered from this point, and a big delegation will leave here on Derby Day to take advantage of it.

Major C. W. Fowler has secured the charter of the Kentucky Military Institute and in the future the Kentucky Training School will assume that name. In order to accommodate the increased patronage of this institution it will be necessary to have larger buildings, and Major Fowler, the Superintendent of the K. M. I., has made a proposition to our people, and if men of money and enterprise will lend a helping hand at this time the project will add greatly to both educational and business interests. Be remembered by our business men that every young man brought here will spend not less than $400. A hundred boys from a distance—and this is not an over estimate for the two schools—would mean an expenditure of $40,000 here; and the question is can we afford to put up $5,000 for this annual expenditure with our business men.

The man who stands idly by and sees the life fading out of his wife's face, sees her health going, sees her becoming old and faded and wrinkled when she should still be in the perfect enjoyment of vigorous, useful health, is either less than a man or else does not know of the one remedy which will bring her back to health and strength. Perhaps her husband can not persuade her to go to her doctor, because she naturally dreads the inevitable "examinations" and "local treatments." He can persuade her, if he needs persuasion, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescriptions. This tiny favorite medicine has cured hundreds of women after the best physicians have failed. It has been in constant use and tested every day for thirty years. It isn't an experiment, there are no chances about it. It is a certain cure for all derangements, weaknesses, irregularities and displacements of internal organs peculiar to women.

Somerset.

All lines of work are being pushed at this church. At a second meeting of the Young People's Society, the following officers were elected: Miss Nannie Hon, President; Miss Sally Clay, Vice-President; Mr. Chas. Highland, Secretary; Mr. John Craycraft, Chorister. Besides these officers the usual number of committees were appointed.

Mr. L. F. Lane, who has been been with Mr. J. W. Jones, the Jeweler, for years, has located in Ronoverie, W. Va., where he will conduct the same line of business he has been engaged in here. Mr. Lane is an up-right business man thoroughly up with his trade, and as a watch repairer there are none better. Mr. Lane will carry a nice line of goods and repairing will be there as it was here, a specialty with him. The citizens of Ronoverie were gratified to say have in Mr. Lane a man who understands his business, is painstaking and honest and will become identified with the interests of his adopted home.

About three-fourths of the corn in this neighborhood has been planted and is coming up nicely. Cut worms are plentiful and are putting in good work on the corn especially that planted in clover and sod land. Wheat, oats, and grasses of all kinds are greatly in need of rain. Garden truck is about all up and is looking well. Tobacco plants are needing rain very badly. The prospect for all kinds of fruit is good except for apples which will be short.

The many friends of Dr. R. Hiner and Rev. E. P. Gifford will regret to hear of their deaths, which occurred about the same date of last week. Dr. Hiner had been pastor of the Grassy Lick church for a number of years and Rev. Gifford was born and raised in this neighborhood and had preached quite often for these people. They both crossed the river of life on the old ship of "Zion" that Dr. Hiner enjoyed singing so well. We shall never forget his song, nor his memory for kind favors shown these people.

Willie.

Willie Reid Sullivan, four-year-old son of Garrett D. Sullivan and wife died on Monday night, the 20th inst., of cerebro spinal meningitis after intense suffering for more than a week. Willie was a bright little fellow, who by his cheery face and cute sayings, endeared himself to every one he met. The Lord took him and while there is sorrow on earth there is joy in heaven. The funeral was preached at the residence Wednesday afternoon by Rev. W. E. Kellar. His remains were interred in Macphail Cemetery.

The trial of Scott Jackson for the murder of Pearl Bryan is in progress at Newport. This was one of the most outrageous and brutal crimes which has ever been committed and the evidence of the prosecution is very damaging and unless the defense get some very positive proof to offset it there will certainly be a neck breaking at Newport. The daily papers are full of the trial and the interest throughout the entire country is very great.
